

Our vision

The right transfusion, always, everywhere

Who we are

The ICTMG is an independent collaborative of volunteers with expertise in transfusion medicine and related clinical disciplines, guideline development methodology and implementation research. The ICTMG secretariat is hosted by Canadian Blood Services, the primary funder for ICTMG.

Our mission

The ICTMG conducts and disseminates evidence-based practice guidelines through international collaboration.

The ICTMG's mission is to optimize patient outcomes through evidence-based international transfusion guidance development and relevant local implementation. The ICTMG delivers value in the following critical areas:

Improving transfusion medicine guidelines globally

We publish clinical guidelines following a rigorous methodology and by engaging experts and representatives from relevant disciplines, societies, and patient groups.

Enhancing transfusion practice locally

Leveraging our members and collaborators' expertise and global geographical diversity, we create evidence-informed guidelines and resources to support better local and regional transfusion practices.

Increasing system performance

By engaging professionals from around the world and at various stages of their careers, we build capacity in guideline development capabilities and transfusion knowledge.
